AAC and modelling in education

Workshop

Learn ways to implement AAC to enable diverse communicators to engage in genuine interactions, foster autonomy and create connections.

Full day workshop

Available all year
Choose your dates

At a venue of your choice

Ask us for a quote

Unlock the power of effective communication and interaction by understanding the 'why' behind each strategy.

Who is this workshop for?

This professional development opportunity for educators, support staff and speech pathologists working in education will help you engage in meaningful, genuine interactions and give you the confidence to navigate diverse communication scenarios.

Learning outcomes:

- Why autonomous communication is important within education
- Enable participation for students with diverse communication needs
- Key points and features of various communication systems
- What modelling really means and why you are doing it
- Modelling practice for genuine interactions
- Enabling autonomy and communication for a range of functions

REQUEST NOW