AAC for emergent communicators

Workshop

Understand the 'why' behind communication, learn how to presume potential and facilitate the journey to autonomous communication for people with a communication disability.

Half-day workshop

Available all year
Choose your dates

At a venue of your choice

Ask us for a quote

Discover the critical steps to build strong foundations for emergent communicators and incorporate the use of robust AAC systems.

Who is this workshop for?

This professional development opportunity is for educators, allied health professionals, support workers and anyone empowering a person with a communication disability, particularly those who mostly communicate with their body or are just starting to use symbols and words.

Learning outcomes:

- Understand the 'why' of communication and interaction for diverse communicators
- Learn how to presume potential and how to get started with AAC
- Understand the difference between pointing to symbols and autonomous communication
- Know what to look for before symbol use to build strong foundations for autonomy and interaction
- Learn how to use robust AAC systems with emergent communicators

REQUEST NOW