

Communication and AAC for support workers

Part 3: Support decision making and directing care

Workshop

Learn the importance of helping people with a communication disability to make decisions. Get practical tips for enabling their independence and gain tools to give them more control over their care and support.

1.5 – 2hr
workshop

Available all year
Choose your dates

At a venue of your choice

Ask us for a quote

Play a key role in enabling self-reliance and independence in the people you work for.

Who is this workshop for?

This learning opportunity for support workers will give you the knowledge and resources to guide your person towards a more self-directed and empowered journey of decision-making, ultimately improving well-being and life satisfaction.

REQUEST NOW

Learning outcomes:

- Understand the importance of large and small decisions for your person
- Learn the importance of practising decision making
- Develop strategies to enable easy and early decision making
- Gain tools and resources to build decision making into daily activities
- Enable your person to improve their control over their care and support