

AAC Perspectives: The AAC Confidence Tree

Workshop

Explore the factors influencing confidence and discover strategies for building and maintaining it. Tailored to students and relevant for educators.

1.5 – 2hr
workshop

Available all year
Choose your dates

At a venue of your choice

Ask us for a quote

An invaluable opportunity to gain firsthand insights from the lived experience of a communication disability. Students will learn how to foster their own confidence and educators will learn more about confidence and the lasting impact of the educational environment.

Who is this workshop for?

This learning opportunity is tailored to students, however educators will also benefit. Through workshop discussions and activities, we bring awareness to all aspects of confidence as Margie Charlesworth, Two Way Street Communication Access Consultant, shares her firsthand experiences using the concept of a tree to describe confidence.

Learning outcomes:

- Learn the concept of confidence and understand what it means to you
- Understand what may break your confidence
- Learn things you can do to build confidence when you need it
- Hear perspectives on maintaining your confidence tree from the lived experience of Two Way Street Communication Access Consultant, Margie Charlesworth

REQUEST NOW